PALACE OF VERSAILLES

The Palace of Versailles remains forever the emblematic symbol of Louis XIV, whose reign lasted for almost half a century. It is recognized as one of the most beautiful works of art of the 17th century France. The most symbolic of the rooms is no doubt the Hall of Mirrors. During the next century, under the reign of Louis XV, the Chapel and the Opera were completed. The Chateau ceased to function as the seat of official power in 1789 with the French Revolution. This program presents a tour of the many rooms and works of art inside of France's national treasure. (2010) (50 min.) In English.

APPROVED FOR ADOPTION
(2012) 75 min.,
Animated.
This remarkable animated documentary traces the unconventional upbringing of the filmmaker Jung Henin, one of the thousands of Korean children adopted by Western families after the end of the Korean War. It is the story of a boy stranded between two cultures. Sepia-toned animated vignettes—some humorous and some poetic-track Jung from the day he first meets his new blond siblings, through elementary school and into his teenage years, when his emerging sense of identity begins to create fissures at home and ignite the latent biases of his adoptive parents. The filmmaker tells his story using his own animation intercut with snippets of Super 8 family footage and archival film. The result is an animated memoir like no other: clear-eyed and unflinching, humorous and wry, and above all, inspiring in the capacity of the human heart. (Not rated, but would be PG-13 if rated.)

<td>MIDNIGHT IN PARIS</td>
<td>2010</td>
<td>94 min.</td>
<td>Woody Allen</td>
<td>PG-13</td>
<td>Paris is a city that lends itself to daydreaming, to walking the streets and imagining all sorts of magic, a quality that Woody Allen understands perfectly. Midnight in Paris is Allen's charming reverie about just that quality, with a screenwriter hero named Gil who strolls the lanes of Paris with his head in the clouds and walks right into his own best fantasy. Sure enough, a midnight encounter draws him into the jazzy world of Scott and Zelda Fitzgerald, Picasso and Dali, and an intense Ernest Hemingway, who promises to bring Gil's manuscript to Gertrude Stein for review. Monsieur Lazhar
While going through his own personal tragedy, Bachir Lazhar, a 55-year-old Algerian immigrant, is hired as a substitute in an elementary school after the abrupt death of a teacher. With great sensitivity and humour, Monsieur Lazhar depicts the encounter of two distant worlds: that of an immigrant and a group of shaken but endearing kids who, together, will transcend their losses.

Noémie le Secrét
(2009) 105 min.
Noémie is seven-and-three-quarters. She is endlessly inquisitive and, like many children of her generation, has parents who are overextended and spend too much time working. Fortunately there's the upstairs neighbour, the wonderful Madame Lumbagó, who loves Noémie like a grandmother and has a cat, a canary and, most important, time. (Rated G in Canada.)

Notre Dame de Paris
(1999) 150 min.
Notre Dame de Paris is indeed a sprawling production on a grand scale. It tells the story of the beautiful gypsy Esmeralda and the three men who are enthralled by her: the soldier Phoebus, the priest Frollo, and Notre Dame's hunchbacked bell ringer, Quasimodo. When Esmeralda is accused of a crime which she did not commit, Quasimodo rescues and shelters her in the sanctuary of Notre Dame. However, things fall apart with tragic results. (In French with French or English subtitles. Also contains complete lyrics in French.)

THE PAINTING
(2011) 78 min., Animated.
In this delightful parable, a kingdom is divided into the three castes: the impeccable painted Alldunns, the Halfies, and the barely outlined Sketchies, who are treated as outcasts. Chastised for her forbidden love of the dashing Ramo, Claire runs away into the cursed forest. Ramo and her best friend Lola journey after her, crossing over the boundaries of the forest only to arrive at the very edge of the painting - where they tumble through the canvas and into the Painter's studio. (Not rated, but if rated would be PG.)

THE RABBI’S CAT
(2011) 89 min., Animated.
Algeria in the 1930s is an intersection of Jewish, Arab and French culture. A cat belonging to a widowed rabbi and his beautiful daughter eats the family parrot and miraculously gains the ability to speak. Along with the power of speech comes unparalleled sardonic wit. The film discusses religion, racism, and violence and is thought-provoking in a surprisingly comedic way. (Not rated, but would be PG if rated.)
